
The Chelmsford Genealogy Club

presents

Dick Eastman

Genealogy Searches on Google

Tues. June 2nd, 2009, 7:00 PM

Chelmsford Library

"Genealogy Searches on Google" is a "how to" presentation that shows how to use everyone's favorite search engine more effectively. It will cover search methods that are not well-known and will also describe how to isolate newly-added information so that you do not need to uncover the same material time and time again.

Dick Eastman has been involved in genealogy for more than 30 years. He worked in the computer industry for more than 40 years. In 1996 he launched Eastman's Online Genealogy Newsletter. This weekly newsletter has grown into a daily publication that is read by more than 40,000 genealogists all over the world. Eastman's Online Genealogy Newsletter may be found at www.eogn.com.

He has also expanded to offer more online services to the genealogy community, including a discussion forum, online genealogy encyclopedia and two online genealogy bookstores. Dick is also interested in ham radio, recumbent bicycling and flying.

Sponsored by: Chelmsford Genealogy Club, Chelmsford Library and Chelmsford Friends of the Library